- Lori Nitzsche

"Kick-Off brings some of the real wackiness of students onto the stage. It makes for an interesting evening and a fun way to start the trimester."

"My art is representative of my physical, social, spiritual and sexual being. Each of the former contributes to my completeness as a whole being. I cannot neglect one without disturbing this balance. Through my jewelry I celebrate the beauty of womyns' bodies. I am reclaiming the female figure as a being of power and self-worth. In doing this I am rejecting the current portrayal of womyn merely as objects. If I was not permitted to create, I would simply wither up and die."

"Hard steel, soft hide, glossy ceramic, stained wood. Not things you usually see or even dream of together, are they? The first time I made one of these combinations, part of me said, 'No, you're not allowed,' but another part was saying, 'Wow, something is really working here; don't stop.' GC RECEIVES BIGGEST GIFT IN ITS HISTORY:

Good opportunities spring from generous gift of $28 million

We are grateful for the confidence this gift shows in our mission as a Christian liberal arts college of the Mennonite Church. It allows us to think boldly about how we can better prepare students to become the church and community leaders of the 21st century."

"The highlight of the year was my senior recital. I had the opportunity to draw in everything I learned from directing to scenic design to lighting designs and dramatic interpretation of poetry. I now feel I can operate outside the college level of theatre."

- Tom Sample

"There's a thrill in theatre that's missing in other departments. It combines history, English, literature and religion into one department. I can share what I've learned and give back to the world."

Music

Kathryn Blocki, Assistant Professor of Music

"Every music prof I've had has been a really good educator about music and every aspect of it–technical, spiritual and overall, really human. I can never articulate what I want to say, that's why I'm a music major."

- Derek Wagler

"It's definitely a very strong department and relatively large for GC's size. Music majors can help enrich a lot of aspects of college. Our department is very close--sort of a family–I know it's cliché. It feels more special, you make close bonds and work one-on-one with the profs, so they're friends and mentors."

On the path to greater understanding

"I want to study the impact of historical events–those in the distant past and those more recent. I'm interested in how these events affect our choices today."

- Malinda Berry

"Unfortunately since we're trapped in the present, the past seems unimportant and usually gets shafted. Ideally, though, history is our guide to both the present and the future."

- Brad Weirich

"History is the field of academia that is truly exciting and stimulating. It is a rigorous discipline that revolves around the never-ending search for meaning in life. It is based on shreds of evidence from past civilizations and peoples. The search is filled with innovative theories, cycles and humor, on the path to greater understanding of ourselves and our world."

"Business is where my interests are. It's good to add a Christian aspect to a business degree and the department did that."

SST breaks ground

"Goshen College students are serving admirably in very challenging circumstances. They provide genuine aid and comfort to refugees and agency personnel while they also learn a great deal from their gracious hosts."

- Stuart Showalter

"One important aspect of mission is to educate; SST in Côte d'Ivoire demonstrates not only that Mennonite Church organizations can cooperate successfully, but also that they each can learn from each other."

- James Krabill

"Nine Chinese teachers became students in a new culture, learning through shared experience – from field trips, to jiaozi demonstrations, to a hot air balloon ride. Although the exchange will not be operating in the immediate future, this year's participants joined those of the past in celebrating 13 consecutive years of a highly successful program."

ANN NAFZIGER

Students bid "Zaijian" to China SST

"The sun had set, shutting off the kaleidoscope of scenes viewed from the Beijing-to-Chengdu train.

September 2, 1980 was a day long anticipated by the 22 GC students approaching Chengdu after 35 hours of incredible scenes and uncertain emotions. How would we be welcomed by the Chinese? Would they have stereotypes of us as we have of them?

Arriving on campus at 11:00 p.m., we were greeted by red banners with the message, "Welcome Goshen College Students." The residence hall was aglow with lights and surrounded by several hundred students and staff.

It didn't take long to find Chinese friends who were charming, intelligent and eager to build cross-cultural bridges. How wonderful to see each other as human siblings rather than prescribed stereotypes! The real friendships planted in that short exposure, while not earth-shaking, would contribute to the international understanding needed in our shrinking world of today."

ANN NAFZIGER

Farewell to China: The last China SST group poses with some new-found friends.

ANN NAFZIGER

"When Harriet and I negotiated the Goshen-Szechuan exchange in January, 1980, China was emerging nervously from the Cultural Revolution. After some 30 years of cultural estrangement and international hostility, we wondered whether it would be possible even to talk with the Chinese authorities and to negotiate in good faith. For some strange reason our relationship was immediately one of trust and friendship.

The Goshen-Szechuan exchange, with its small beginning, has been more significant than we could have imagined. Since 1980, over two million Chinese have studied in the U.S. We hope that the Goshen-Szechuan exchange, now suspended for financial reasons, may be resumed as soon as possible."

- J. Lawrence Burkholder

At the market: Junior Andrea Swartzendruber is unsure whether or not she will buy a Chinese butcher's bargain.

JOHN D. YODER

"Because I live off-campus and am a non-traditional student, I don't get a chance to interact with the other students very much. It was interesting to be able to do so during this year's graduation."

- Merlin Becker-Hoover

"I didn't get my diploma yet, so probably the most exciting part was looking at the diploma of the person next to me. I could actually see what one looked like."

- Gretchen Nyce

"It was quite anti-climactic considering it's a day you look forward to since you're six years old."

- Becky Larrison

COLLECTIVELY WE'RE WORKING TOWARD ENRICHING YOUR LIFE.

At Coachmen Industries, we're dedicated to the enrichment of your life. That's our corporate motto. It means we always do our best to provide quality products and services which will improve the comfort and lifestyle of our users.

RECREATIONAL VEHICLES

The five recreational vehicle divisions of Coachmen Industries build one of the largest selections of RV's in America today. By producing fold-down camping trailers, truck campers, travel trailers, fifth wheels, mini-motorhomes, van conversions and full size motorhomes, we provide a diverse range of products to make leisure travel accessible to more Americans.

PARTS AND SUPPLY

Our parts and supply divisions add depth and diversity to our product offerings. Aside from supplying components to our RV divisions, the parts and supply companies produce a popular line of office chairs and automotive after market products. We also produce a variety of ambulances and emergency vehicles used across the nation.

MODULAR HOUSING

Through the modular housing divisions, Coachmen Industries has helped make quality housing an affordable dream for many Americans. We build fine quality ranch, story-and-a-half and two story modular homes which are known for their beauty as well as their solid construction and design.

Coachmen is proud to be an important part of the Elkhart economy and to build many of our products right here, in the crossroads of America. From the past, through the present and into the future, we're dedicated to the enrichment of your life.
